Dear Anthony,

Thank you for your candidness in acknowledging your anger about your diagnosis. Thank you for talking about the teeter totter that exists during treatment. You showed that the teeter totter can tilt upward when we depend on our faith and friends during times of trial.

Surrounding you in hope,
Jenni

Anthony's Sand Tray: Faith

Faith is important because it felt like I had someone to talk to when I was diagnosed.

The teeter totter is tilted up because it represents that the road only goes up after treatment. I felt mad and scared at first but then I met others and knew I wasn't alone.

I put the lighthouse because it represents that faith is a guide through chemo.

The trophy is 1st place and means I beat Cancer.
