

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.—The gold mania of California is spreading over the country. We notice in our own advertising columns, and in the papers of other cities, that expeditions are fitting out for the El Dorado of the West. With the gold beds as an attraction, California will soon outstrip Oregon and New Mexico, in riches and in population. If all that is said of the gold mines of California be correct, Russia, with its Ural mountains, will sink into insignificance.
